Madison Journal of Literary Criticism Staff Application

2022-2023

1. What position(s) would you like to be considered for (If editor, include which section)? Please list in order of preference.
2. Why are you interested in the position(s)? Do you bring any special skills or experience to your desired position(s)?
3. What areas of literature and/or theory have you had the most experience or interest in? Can you describe this experience/interest?
4. What are your ideas for how a literary journal could or should function within the UW-Madison community? What needs do you see it fulfilling, and what do you think it could offer the undergraduate community of literature majors as a whole?
5. Do you have any additional abilities or interest in layout, graphic design, publishing, copy-editing, ad sales, or business management?
6. Do you have any questions for us?
7. Please copy and paste a writing sample below. Due to our new, broadened range of publication materials, you may submit any piece of writing that best reflects your style and skill. This can be an academic paper, poem, prose, fiction, or nonfiction (like op-eds or articles). There is no minimum length requirement, however, pieces must be 10 pages or less.
